

Demon Loyalty and You: How to keep your demons in check.

Thank you for purchasing this week's new magazine from the closest summoner bar near you. Every Summoner has demons and demons always have feelings of their own. We would all like our demons to follow us walk around in circles 24/7, but demons have their own options. If you aren't careful, they might try to kill you.

Why is demon loyalty so important? Well, demons can be big disappointments in battle when they aren't properly cared for. They could allow themselves to die, do whatever they want to do instead, or attack you directly.

Note: If your COMP is damaged, you have no way to handle the situation and only demons loyal to you will defend and follow you. If this happens to you, remember the threes.

1. Drop what you are doing and run. Any demon that dislike you will want to kill you.
2. Throw a smoke bomb. These cost around 99 Macca and will stun the demon.
3. Go repair the COMP right away. Your normal summoning won't happen until it's repaired.

What are the seven important ways to keep demon loyalty up?

1. Remember their Demon Personalities: Demons will want things certain ways, so respecting their viewpoints (even if wrong) will make them happy. The same way with what items you buy, what other demons you have in your party and how you order them around.
2. Having a bad demon: Demons that might not like each other will argue when they can and attack each other. When this happens, you need to solve this immediately. Supporting more over the other will impact how things are viewed in your party.
3. Taking breaks. Occasionally, you can sit down and drink some tea with your demons. Everybody loves Tea, to watch a concert and to do other things. Allow your demons to participate in the fun! Not only humans love to party.
4. Buy gifts for your demons. This is to show and tell them that they are doing a good job! Make sure it is something they like beforehand. Doing certain actions will also show you respect and love for them. Note: Doing an action or a gift to a Preta will make them demand it often. Give them smaller and quick actions, it would be a shame getting jumped while doing jumping jacks with a Preta.
5. Heal your demons! Forcing them to walk around while they are injured, more so if almost mortally injured, will make them unhappy. Unhappy demons are no good. Healing them and making them ready for battle is the best way to explore.
6. Don't disrespect your demons in front of other summoners and humans. This is severe and makes most interactions seem very fake and demons don't like that.
7. Using them in battle shows you trust their skill. Leaving them in the COMP makes them feel less as they want to get in on the action! Unless their personality is to stay in the COMP to give passive effects.

Making sure your demons are nice and happy will make the performance in battles the best!
